LACK OF SHIP SPACE STILL HINDRANCE IN THIS MARKET

Trieste Wants Sesamum Seeds In Hurry

LOSS IS £24,000

Offers Of £24 Per Ton Had To Be Declined

BY DAVID ARAKIE
(Financial Editor)

The lack of tonnage space is is still hampering trade in certain lines in Shanghai. For instance, Trieste has been clamoring for Chinese sesamum seeds and orders for 10,000 tons of these could have been executed this week if only shipments could have been promised for February or March. The only company that runs vessels to Trieste is the Lloyd Triestino, and they can only offer space for April, which is not acceptable to buyers.

In other words, Shanghai exporting houses could have put through £24,000 worth of cargo this week if the Trieste buyers were not so insistent on earlier-than-March shipment. Trieste is buying at £24 per ton, which comes up to the standard of the Shanghai market, while Hamburg and Rotterdam are only quoting £23.5 per ton.

It is not known exactly why the buyers are refusing to accept shipment later than March, but it is presumed wide fluctations or probably a big drop is feared by that time. Trieste is out of the run of steamship companies.

EXPORTABLE SURPLUS

From the opening of the sesamum seed season in October last until the end of last month Trieste took some 30,000 tons, the value of which was between £680,000 to £700,000 or between Tls. 4,000,000 to Tls. 4,700,000. Shipments from Shanghai to Trieste of this product this season have been on a much larger scale than in previous years. In 1921 China exported 410,844 piculs valued at Tls. 2,374,775 against 209,594 piculs valued at Tls. 1.093,183 in the previous year and 492,190 piculs valued at Tls. 2,679,755 in 1919.

This season the total quantity so far exported from Shanghai is 45,000 tons, and this quantity includes shipments to Trieste, Genoa, Hamburg and Rotterdam. It includes cargo from Hankow transhipped in Shanghai. The Chinese sesamum crop this season was above average, and it is estimated that about 40,000 tons will be available this season for export from Shanghai and some 60,000 to 70,000 tons from Hankow. The quantity shipped from Dairen is small as the production in Manchuria is poor.

TRIESTE'S ANNUAL WANTS

Last season Trieste bought fairly largely in the Indian market as prices in India were cheaper than China. The crushing power of the Trieste oil mills is 50,000 to 60,000 tons, and the Trieste market has to buy that quantity of sesamum seeds annually from abroad. At present Trieste cannot buy from India owing to the adverse exchange, and buyers from that place must come into the Shanghai market, where prices are lower than in India and exchange with Trieste more favorable. So it would seem if that center has not bought largely in India the balance of her annual requirements, 20,000 to 30,000 tons, would have to be picked up in China, and this might probably have a hardening tendency on the rate in this market, the quotation today being Tls. 8 per picul. Compared with the past season present quotations do not show much of an advance.

OIL CONTENTS IMPORTANT

This week Genoa bought some 500 tons of this product at £24 per ton. Both England and the United States have been out of the sesamum market in Shanghai. The English oil mills do not crush sesamum seeds, but they confine themselves to beans, linseed or cotton seeds. The oil contents of beans is 18 percent, while that of linseed and cotton seed is also lower than sesamum seeds. The latter product has 50 to 52 percent oil contents and the outturn of cakes is, therefore, smaller from sesamum seeds than from the others. Since the opening of the season America has bought very small parcels of this produce principally for edible purposes.

Pau Ta-tsang, who lives on Burkill Road, is an early riser and at 4:30 a few mornings ago he was already astir. Passing through the kitchen on his way to annoy the cook he heard a strange sound and paused to listen. Somebody was trying to manipulate the lock of the back door. Tiptoing over, he turned the key and jerked open the portal, whereupon Tseu Ongsung, who had been crouching on the threshold, sprawled into the house.

Without words of farewell Tseu realigned himself and bolted out of the alleyway, Pau streaming loudly in his wake. A policeman who hapnened to be passing joined the chase. The pursuing party set a hot pace and Tseu, beginning to lose ground, ducked into another alleyway.

Now choosing alleyways at random, or on impulse, is covered by the first "DON'T" in the Shanghai Association of Fugitives' rule book. But Tseu must have scanned his copy carelessly. Anyway, after he had rounded a couple of bends he found that somebody had gone and put up a tall, substantial brick house right smack across the right of way.

When Tseu came into court the Magistrate reminded him that this was his third visit and asked him if he didn't know that being sentenced to expulsion from the Settlement meant that he must remain permanently abroad. Tseu said he recalled having been in the Mixed Court before and realised that the Settlement was out of bounds for him; but he thought this was a case involving extenuating circumstances.

The entire Tseu family, including three or four generations, was sick, the prisoner said, and out of money. He couldn't borrow any outside of Shanghai as all his friends lived in the city, and he had a particularly good friend named Siau who lived in an alleyway somewhere off Burkill Road and was of a trusting nature and always equipped with funds. He was not sure of the house, but he had thought it might be the place which turned out to be Pau's and he was going in there to find out. As soon as he saw Pau he knew that it was not the right house and he went away, but Pau and the policeman followed him and arrested him.

Tseu assured the Court that he had entirely reformed since his last appearance. He was not going to steal anything and he was not going to stay in the Settlement.

The Court expressed doubt as to the first assertion and assured Tseu that he was entirely wrong as to the second. He was going to stay three months. After that he leaves us again.

CIRCUMSTANCE INTERVENES

Having stowed twenty pounds of cotton into his costume at the O. S. K. Wharf, Wong Kong was removing from that locality "very quickly," according to the testimony of Watchman Lama Singh.

In fact, but for one small circumstance, in the witness' opinion, Wong, so rapid was his departure, might now be foregathering with relatives in Soochow. The circumstance alluded to was in the nature of a hawser connecting a boat to the wharf. Wong encountered it about shin-high and immediately thereafter doubtless experienced a glow of gratitude for the recently acquired padding.

The prisoner denied trying to abscond with the cotton.

"I had no intention of stealing it," he told the Court. "I wanted to buy it."

A statement which the Court discounted two weeks' worth.

Will Not Allow Coal Trains To Pass Cologne Area

Exclusive Dispatch To THE CHINA PRESS

London, Feb. 9.—A report has reached here that the Russian Soviet government has given assurances of a willingness to assist Germany in her efforts to resist the French occupation of the Ruhr, if such help is desired.

(Reuter's Service)

Berlin, Feb. 9.—At a meeting of the Budget Committee of the Reichstag yesterday, the Minister of the Interior stated that only 22,000 tons of coal and 17,000 tons of coke had reached France and Belgium from the occupied part of the Ruhr between January 15 and January 31 and that only 850 tons had been despatched to France since then.

(Reuter's Service)

London, Feb. 9.—In pursuance of their occupation of the southern boundary of the Ruhr area, the French have occupied Remschied, the large agricultural and machinery manufacturing center, and have thus almost encircled the famous steel manufacturing town of Solingen, which is just within the British zone. A logical extension of this occupiation would take the French to the most important textile areas of Barmen and Elberfeld.

The military movements, however, do not help to solve the transport and other difficulties of the Ruhr, with regard to which Paris telegrams indicate public dissatisfacton with the ill-success of the Governmental measures up to the present.

Exclusive Dispatch To THE CHINA PRESS

Berlin, Feb. 9.—The coal miners in the Lorraine district have gone on strike.

Exclusive Dispatch To THE CHINA PRESS

Paris, Feb. 9.—Germany has sent a new note, protesting against the occupation of the Baden district, particularly stressing the fact that the Ruhr valley is largely dependent on this district for its supplies of leather and foodstuffs. The Germans complain that the influx of foreign soldiers has had a very serious effect on the food situation, made worse, they say, because of the fact that many of the invading soldiers are accompanied by their families.

Exclusive Dispatch To THE CHINA PRESS

London, Feb. 9.—It is officially stated that the British government will not allow coal trains from the Ruhr valley to pass through the British occupied zone.

Berlin, Feb. 8.—A semi-official despatch from Recklinghausen states that eight policemen were arrested today for refusing to salute occupation officers. Tanks cleared the market-square, where a crowd were singing patriotic songs.

In commemoration of the birthday of the greatest of all Americans—Abraham Lincoln—which comes on Monday, Judge Charles Sumner Lobingier of the United States Court for China will deliver a short address on "The International Lincoln" for THE CHINA PRESS-Radio Corporation of China broadcasting program at 8 o'clock tonight.

In addition Lincoln's masterful and classic address at the dedication of the Gettysburg battlefield cemetery for soldiers will be read for the first time by radio, the American School Quartette will sing "The Song of the Armourer," Miss Bernice Austin will sing "Carissima," and Mr. Charles McDaniel will sing "Mighty Land," the splendid tenor solo from the operetta "Pocahantas."

The program has been selected to add the spice of variety to the broadcasting treats following the jazzy presentation of a number of the latest dance numbers received from the United States played by the Del Monte orchestra last night.

The Del Monte musical generators, who furnish the inspiration for dance hungry Shanghailanders who don't want to go home until morning at the Del Monte each night, played in their best tempo last night and delighted the daily growing mob of radio enthusiasts in Shanghai.

LOBINGIER TO SPEAK

Judge Lobingier is an ardent admirer of Lincoln and responded graciously when he was invited to make a short address on the great martyred president. On February 12 last year Judge Lobingier was present at the unveiling of the Lincoln Memorial in Washington, D. C., as the guest of Chief Justice Taft of the United States Supreme Court.

In his address tonight—which is the first he has ever delivered by wireless—Judge Lobinger is expected to point out that while Lincoln was the greatest American of all time—"a man for the ages"—he is also growing more and more to be one of the most admired figures in international history.

SCHOOL SINGERS

For the musical end of the program a number of excellent singers from the Shanghai American School have been secured to administer musically to 'listeners in.' The school quartette, composed of Mr. Rodd Moffett of Kiangyin, first tenor; Mr. Charles McDaniel of Soochow, second tenor; Mr. Alex Moffett of Kiangyin, first bass, and Mr. Thomas Grafton of Haichow, second bass, will sing "The Song of The Armourer." The boys all have excellent voices, well trained, and have delighted several appreciative audiences with the same song in the past.

Mr. Charles McDaniel of the quartette, who had the part of 'John Smith' in Pocahantas, the operetta produced by the school with such marked success, will sing the principal song from that role.

Sung Han-Chang Appeals To British Minister For Mixed Court Restitution

Eloquent Plea Made At Tiffin In Honor Of Sir Ronald Macleay, Who Promises To Give Matter Due Consideration

Restitution of the Mixed Court to "unmixed Chinese judicial control" and the consolidation of the value of the internal loan bonds formed the two subjects of an eloquent appeal made by Mr. Sung Han-chang, chairman of the Chinese General Chamber of Commerce, at a tiffin given in honor of Sir Ronald Macleay, new British Minister to Peking, yesterday, at the chamber.

Sir Ronald responded, advising the leaders in the economic and industrial fields of China to take a more active part in politics and promising to give the Chinese feelings on the question of the Mixed Court his sympathetic consideration when the matter come up before the Diplomatic Corps in Peking.

After expressing his deep gratitude to the chairman and the vice-chairman of the Chamber for their courtesy, the Minister said that he felt that he was fortunate in being able to enter China by the great gateway of the nation, so agreeably styled by his host, the great commercial metropolis, as this afforded him the opportunity of not only meeting such a gallant soldier like General Ho Feng-lin and such an able diplomatist like Commissioner Hsu Yuan, but also the representatives of the banking industrial and commercial interests of the country.

It was only six years ago that he had left China, but he was struck with the many signs of progress upon his return. He attributed this great expansion to the constructive ability of the gentlemen of the chamber who were leaders in their respective fields of endeavor.

GIVES HIS VIEWS

The chairman had raised several very important questions, said the envoy. There was a proverb in England that one should not talk Greek to a scholar. Not being a commercial man, he would approach the questions of commercial interest with diffidence. But giving allowance to his lack of knowledge, the minister said, he would give his own views as he saw those problems.

Sir Ronald pointed out that China's sufferance of unrest was due perhaps not so much to the effects of the war, but to the great change that was brought about by the Revolution in 1911. There was one feature which he attached a great deal of significance, that was although China was a Republic, the great industrial and commercial interests did not take a direct or active part in the political welfare of the nation. It was the opinion of the minister that the members of the chamber who represented the economic interest in the country should take a more active and direct part in politics.

Here the Minister quoted extensively from the Annalects of Confucious to show how the Great Sage upon being questioned by Yang Hu, admitted that it was unwise to stay aloof from politics when one is possessed of the necessary qualifications. He then emphasised the importance of co operation between Chinese and foreigners in political as well as economic enterprises

SPIRIT OF CO-OPERATION

Minister Macleay pointed to the Kailan Mining Administration and the Fu Chung Corporation as examples of success in international co-operation and stated that the Chinese should adopt a less suspicious and more benevolent attitude toward foreign capital especially in the development of mineral resources. He believed that the chamber could best use its influence on the Chinese Government to promulgate a code of mining laws to be put into force immediately.

Another question which the Minister touched upon was the reform of the currency system in China. It seemed absurd, the envoy said, that a country like China with her thousands of years of civilisation should tolerate a system under which the banknotes of Shanghai cannot be cashed at Peking at par. It was a pity that the tramway company at Shanghai should lose 30 percent on exchange depreciation. Such fluctuation would tend to increase the speculative character to all business and he hoped that this might be remedied at an early date.

In reply to Mr. Sun's suggestions on the Mixed Court, Sir Ronald stated that it was difficult for him to express anything definite in as much as the court concerned all nationalities represented in China. He was only a representative of one of the nations and he felt that he was not entitled to

Vice-Admiral Nicholson Ordered To Back Up Other Vessels In Harbor, And Will Use His Guns In Event Of Any Hostile Act

(Reuter's Service)

Malta, Feb. 8.—In addition to H. M. S. Curacoa, the super-dreadnoughts, Resolution and Emperor of India, have arrived at Mytilene. Besides the Ernest Renan, the French destroyer, Somali, a Dutch battleship and an Italian warship are also at Smyrna.

Rear-Admiral Sir Alfred Chatfield, on board H. M. S. Cardiff, arrived at Chanak yesterday and proceeded to Constantinople.

(Reuter's Service)

Constantinople, Feb. 8.—Vice-Admiral Nicholson, in the light-cruiser, Curacoa, entered Smyrna this morning unopposed and landed and interviewed the Turkish Commander. It is understood that he informed the Turks of the decision of the Powers not to recognise the restriction of Turkish ports until after signature of peace and warned them that he had orders to fire in case of any hostile act.

The Allied High Commissioners have handed Angora a fresh Note, demanding withdrawal of the recent order.

The Turkish newspapers view the crisis gravely and it is reported from Angora that public feeling is very excited. The Council of Commissars is sitting continuously.

The press is demanding that the National Pact shall be upheld and declares that Ismet Pasha's concessions at Lausanne must be annulled.

(Reuter's Service)

Constantinople, Feb. 8.—It is reported that the Governor of Smyrna has informed the French Consul that he has extended the time given warships to leave the harbor by 24 hours in order to receive instructions from Angora.

All is quiet in Smyrna this morning.

Vice-Admiral Nicholson, on board the light-cruiser Curacoa, which is standing by off Mytilene, has been ordered to enter Smyrna Harbor this morning to support H. M. S. Calypso if necessary.

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, Feb. 8.—Commenting on the situation at Smyrna, the Temps says: "France is pacific as at the time when she withdrew her covering troops 10 kilometers from the Turkish frontier; but if her ships or soldiers are touched she will react with vigor and perseverance.

London, Feb. 9.—Replying to the message sent by Lord Robert Cecil on behalf of the British government to the League of Nations, expressing approval of the proposal to submit the Mosul question to the League, Lord Curzon says:

TWO FIRMS LOSE ACTIONS AGAINST LIBERTY CLUB

Lobingier Holds Members Not Responsible For Individual's Actions

Holding that "contracts entered into by a member of voluntary association without the authority or knowledge of his fellow members do not bind the latter," and that "relotting without the lessee's consent usually constitutes a waiver of the terms of the lease," Judge Charles S. Lobingier yesterday gave judgment for the defendants in both cases brought against the the Liberty Club by the Russian Economic Society and Hall and Holtz.

The Liberty Club, now defunct, was an organistion of prominent Americans, many of whom testified during the hearings that they did not know they were members. Schuhl and Schoenfeld appeared for the defendants, and Williams, Franklin and Faison represented the Russian Economic Society, and Davies and Bryan, Hall and Holtz.

Judge Lobingier's judgment in full follow:

"These actions, which were tried simultaneously, were brought against the defendant which is described in the first complaint as an unincorporated society or club . . . associated together for common enterprise, under a common name, for social ends and purposes. (Par. 2.)

"The said complaint is based on an instrument purporting to be executed by plaintiff and 'Neville Craig for (or per) Liberty Club' on February 23, 1921 at which time, the complaint alleges, 'the defendant club was partly organised.' It was evidently not intended as anything more than a provisional instrument for it provides 'this lease have the lawful right till the undersigning the new more detailed lease' etc. (Par. 4.)

"Moreover, on March 10, following plaintiff's representative wrote Mr. Craig:

I beg to request you to make haste to sign the contract with the particulars as indicated by by paragraph 4 of our agreement of February 23, 1921.

Will you be so kind as to sign the inventory which is in your possession for the articles in the flat you are occupying. (Ex. 2.)

"Again on March 21, the same representative wrote to the same party:

Refering to our letter of March 10 we beg you to acknowledge receipt of same, give us an answer before the 25th a.c.

I beg to request you to make haste to sign the contract with the particulars as indicated by paragraph 4 of our agreement of February 23, 1921.

Will you be so kind as to sign the inventory which is in your possession for the articles in the flat you are occupying. (Ex. 3.)

"It seems clear, then, that plaintiff expected the 'particulars' of the lease to be set forth in a later instrument and this may have been the reason why that of Feburary 23 contains no express undertaking to keep the premises for any particular time, the provision on that point being unilateral and merely speak on the question. However, he recollected that this court was taken over by the settlement authorities under abnormal conditions and it was always recognised that this was but a transitory measure. The principle was recognised that eventually the court would be restored to China.

In conclusion, Minister Macleay assured his Chinese friends that when the matter comes up upon the recommendation of the Consular Body in Shanghai, due consideration would be taken of the Chinese feelings of the Settlement. He then asked his audience to join him in drinking to the prosperity of the chamber and the health of its chairman and vice-chairman.

SUN SPEAKS

The full text of Mr. Sung's speech is as follows:

"We have among us today as our guest of honor, Sir Ronald Macleay, His Britannic Majesty's Minister to this country, who after his brief sojourn here, is leaving us on Monday for the capital where he will assume his very important duties as the guardian of the interests of Britons in China, and as the promoter of the friendly relations between Great Britain and China.

"It is most fitting that, prior to his arrival at the capital, he should have deemed it advisable to spend a short time in Shanghai in order to study at close range the conditions of this commercial metropolis—conditions which have vital bearings on conditions of trade and industry throughout the whole of the Chinese Republic.

"Sir Ronald, this is your second trip to China, and certainly you are no stranger in a strange land. Because of the long established commercial relations existing between Great Britain and China by reason of the British merchants having been the pioneers of foreign trade in this country and because we feel convinced that you will be pleased to hear our views as to the methods that might be employed for the stabilisation of the commercial situation in China, I venture to take the liberty of saying a few words on two timely subjects instead of encroaching on your valuable time by any talk of a ceremonious nature.

"Ever since the World War was brought to a close there has been a feeling of unrest in the various countries, and China is no exception. Although various circumstances have militated against the normal expansion of trade in China, the statistics of the Maritime Customs show that China's imports and exports have both steadily increased, and this is especially true in the case of Shanghai. There is no question that China is a great buying nation, and its purchasing power would have been exercised on a much larger scale had it not been due to the two-fold obstacles which had been found in the way of commercial development. I refer to our political chaos and to our abnormal financial situation.

FINANCE STABLE

"In spite of our political disturbances we have been able so far to prevent any outbreak in the nature of a financial panic; and this is due to what I would call our financial stability with the maintained circulation of Government bonds on the market and the import and export trade going on unimpeded. In recent years the Chinese Government has floated internal loans to the extent of more than $300,000,000. It is of supreme importance to the public, both foreign and Chinese, that the value of these internal loan bonds which are held by foreigners and Chinese alike, should be consolidated, for once the circulation of these bonds is obstructed through the impairment of the security of the sinking funds, there will then come a real financial panic which will affect seriously the Far Eastern trade and which will lead to the considerable curtailment of the buying power of the Chinese people. Now it is an admitted fact that British traders have the leading share of the Oriental trade, and their co-operation in preventing the causes of this panic in view is conducive to both their personal interests and, in a general way, to the interests of the merchants of all nationalities combined.

"The second point in which we earnestly hope that you, Sir Ronald, should take a special interest is the question of the administration of justice in a great commercial port like Shanghai where the problems of protecting the interests of foreign and Chinese trade men are of a very complex nature and require very delicate handling in order that justice may be efficiently administered. Do we have at present an adequate legal machinery for dealing with the numerous civil and criminal cases that crop up in this International Settlement? I think the only correct answer to such a question is 'No,' and I can say that all Shanghai is with me in making this negative reply. It is nevertheless of supreme importance that this problem should be solved because in its solution lies the progress or the slow growth of this city.

COURT UNSATISFACTORY

"We have with us the Mixed Court with its heavy record of cases tried during the past years. However, owing to the limited facilities afforded by the procedures whereby legal proceedings are handled by this Court, it has on te whole not been entirely ctatisfactory to the local population. It is for this reason that there has been for some time past an organised movement among the Chinese with the aim of bringing back the Mixed Court to unmixed Chinese judicial control.

"No one will, I expect, disagree with me when I say that the time has indeed arrived for the introduction of a court of appeal in Shanghai in order to bring our systems of administration of justice in line with the systems actually enforced in other cities of civilised countries throughout the world. At present this question is engaging the attention of the local Consular Body whose recommendations will in time be duly considered by the Diplomatic Body. Too much emphasis cannot, however, be laid on the importance of the early creation of a court of appeal for dealing with both civil and criminal cases because the Mixed Court today is exercising powers over criminal cases to the extent of imposing the sentence of capital punishment, although in the old days it was only authorised to deal with criminal cases of a light nature similar to those that are tried in police courts, and its heaviest sentence was limited to five years' imprisonment. All criminal cases of a grievous nature were then invariably to be handed over to the Magistrate of the Shanghai District for trial. But I am sorry to say both the letter and spirit of this very significant legal provision have absolutely disappeared.

SYSTEM DEFICIENT

"It is much to be regretted that Shanghai with its unrivalled record of commercial activities and with its fine systems of municipal administration should have this glaring deficiency in its present system for the administration of justice whereby any possible miscarriage of justice—and this miscarriage is a universal possibility—in civil and criminal suits may be judicially remedied. Such an unhealthy state of things must go and I believe, Sir Ronald, you will share the enlightened opinion of Shanghai that the sooner the present state of judicial abnormalcy is brought to an end in this city, the better it will be for foreign and Chinese trade interests combined. It is not only a change which experience has shown to be immediately necessary, but it is a development without which the fundamental principles of the international law of equity will materially suffer. Shanghai as a leading commercial port demands this. The welfare of the several hundred thousands of Chinese inhabitants here demands this.

"Perhaps it is not fair that at a reception of welcome like the present one we should have taxed the mind of our guest of honor by an earnest discussion of momentous problems like the two to which I have referred. But this is due to the great confidence which has been inspired by the record of British fair-play and by the impressive personality of Sir Ronald Macleay whose mission to China will largely depend for its great success on the co-operative steps that he will take in the direction of hastening the return of normal commercial and economic conditions in this country.

"Gentlemen, let us all drink to the health and success of Sir Ronald Macleay, our distinguished guest of honor."

The guests present were: Sir Ronald Macleay, General Ho Feng-lin, Com. G. Nob. de'Rossi, Commissioner Hsu Yuan, Mr. S. Barton, Mr. E. S. Cunningham, M. A. Wilden, Mr. T. DEL MONTE SCORES

The Del Monte orchestral quartette, which is composed of Mr. F. Martinez, pianist and leader; Mr. P. Palmer, violin; Mr. R. Cook, saxaphone, and Mr. E. Kreuter, trap-drums, played two snappy numbers, "When The Leaves Come Tumbling Down," and "Carolina In The Morning," last night, as well as providing the musical background for three solo and feature numbers.

When Mr. P. Palmer was playing his violin solo, "Romanza" Mr. Roger L. Moore, manager of the Astor House Hotel, telephoned the broadcasting station that he was hearing the solo extremely distinctly, and had heard the preceding news bulletins broadcast by THE CHINA PRESS and other musical selections very clearly.

Mr. R. Cook, saxaphonist, played "Truly," accompanied by the other members of the musical quartette with the same clarity and sweetness as has made other saxaphone solos extremely enjoyable over the radio. Mr. Cook is an artist of the saxaphone and his playing was keenly enjoyed.

The Del Monte players concluded their program with "Deedle Deedle Dum," featuring Mr. E. Kreuter, the whizz-bang trap specialist who recently joined the Del Monte aggregation. Mr. Kreuter simply made his drums talk turkey for the radio fans last night.

The French wireless station reported after the concert that the modulation had been very good and even clearer than had been the case of previous evenings. The increased clarity resulted from several unique changes that Mr. E. G. Osborn made in the motors generating the broadcasting power at the station, which has removed a slight hum that was noticeable at times on preceeding evenings. Several phonograph selections played last night were so clear that the slightest scratching of the needle was instantly transmitted to the listeners in's ears.

On Sunday evening a complete church service will be broadcasted from the radio station, making the second unique service to be so given in Shanghai. The Very Rev. C. J. Fs. Symons preached two weeks ago. The complete service will be printed in THE CHINA PRESS tomorrow.

Two Firms Lose Actions Against Liberty Club

Is to be let for a term commencing on the twenty-third day of February, 1921 and terminating on the thirty-first day of December, 1923, the second floor of the big house, etc.

"It is not claimed that the proposed later instrument was ever executed by anyone and we would not be justified in finding, as plaintiff's counsel requests (2) that even Mr. Craig bound himself to keep and pay for the premises 'for the period February 23, 1921 to December 31, 1923.' The one fact which is clear from the correspondence up to this point is that plaintiff was dealing with Mr. Craig alone. The Liberty Club is not mentioned in either letter.

"Now Neville Craig was but an individual. He was not even an officer of the Liberty Club and there is no evidence that any officer or member authorised or assumed to authorise him to bind it or held out such authority. On the contrary plaintiff's first witness testifies (referring to a period before February 23, 1921), to a meeting at which four or five attended. * * The rental of that place was being discussed. I told them it was impossible for an organisation such as we had to pay such a rent and I left the meeting. * * I am sure there were others there that were of my opinion. In fact I think the whole meeting was of the same opinion. (Trans. pp. 5, 6, 7).

"The rule as regards a voluntary association of this kind, organised without expectation of profit, is that

'If an officer, in making a contract in the association's behalf, acts without authority or in excess of his authority, the association is not bound thereby. (1) For the liability of the individual members is controlled by the law of agency, and to hold a member liable it must be shown that he actively or constructively assented to or ratified the contract upon which liability is predicated. (2)

"Plaintiff counsel asks us to find that 'the Liberty Club was subsequently and completely organised.' That is likewise contrary to the testimony of its first witness who says:

'The thing was never thoroughly organised. It was never really an organisation. * * I do not think there was ever a constitution drawn up. (Trans. pp. 2, 3).

"Another witness called by plaintiff testifies:

'Club was not organised. No articles were drawn up. Nobody saw any articles. My idea of the club was merely that Mr. Craig was endeavoring to organise a club and applied to various people who he thought might be interested in the formation of such a club (Trans. 48).

"It is conceded that the club was never incorporated but we are asked to find that 'at a formal opening of said club' certain officers were elected. The first witness above quoted says on this point:

'I think at the original meeting at the Y.M.C.A. the officers were elected.

Q. By the members?

A. By the group there, really no membership at that time. (Trans. p. 10).

"The one who is referred to as the president testifies:

'I do not know whether I was properly elected. I was not present at the election. I was notified by either Mr. Craig or Mr. Wright, neither one of whom were officers, that I had been elected. * *

Q. Why did you resign?

A. Because the proposition was a surprise to me. When I got here I found that there was a large building rented, or a great portion of a large building fully furnished and the club had not been organised. * * This election took place during my absence from Shanghai. As a matter of fact I had not been consulted on the question of my election. (Trans. 46, 47).

"It is not without significance, also, that at the defendant club's one public meeting, as reported by the press and mentioned in the evidence there were over 100 members present, Mr. Perkins, Vice Consul presided and was elect-honorary president. (Trans. p. 10).

"The other president would seem, therefore, to have been little more than a nominal one.

"Of the others whom we are asked to find were officers. Dr. Dunn says (pp. 9, 10) he was not the treasurer but was merely 'put on the Executive Committee;' Mr. Wright states (p. 19) that he 'was never an officer' and Mr. Shainan (p. 32) that he was 'temporary treasurer. . . elected after the club had been already in its quarters.'

"We are asked (5) to find not only that these parties were officers but that they and the members took possession having knowledge of the fact that Neville Craig had contracted with the Russian Economic Society in respect of the premises in question for and on behalf of the Club.

"On this point the one who had been elected president of the club testified:

Q When did you first learn that Mr. Craig had entered into a written lease with the Russian Economic Society, having reference to the premises occupied by the Liberty Club?

A I had an intimation from your good self some time last year on that subject, a considerable time after the Liberty Club had ceased to exist.

Q That was the first time you knew of it?

A Absolutely the first time I knew any lease had been entered into, that it was alleged that any lease had been entered into. (Trans. p. 44)

"Every other member who was questioned on the subject testified that he knew nothing of any such lease in advance (Trans. pp. 30, 32) and plaintiff's president admits (p. 86) that he dealt with Mr. Craig alone and never consulted the other members. One of plaintiff's directors who first testified (p. 97) that defendant's nominal president declined to discuss the matter with him. Subsequently the director related an alleged conversation as follows:

I tell him, 'Do you know that according to our lease with American Liberty Club you must pay three months in advance?' He tells me, 'Yes, I know but Mr. Craig now is dead,' but I tell him 'This lease was signed by Mr. Craig for Liberty Club.' He tells me, 'Yes, but we can pay only for one month in advance and I think that this month will be the last one.' (Trans. p. 101)

"This is claimed to have been 'the end of April or the first of May' (1921) more than two months after the lease was executed. But if impeachment were the purpose, the foundation should have been lain by calling the president's attention to the alleged conversation and giving him an opportunity to deny or explain. (3) In any case we could not find from this evidence that defendant's nominal president knew of the lease at any time, for plaintiff's director is an interested witness quite as much as the former and the burden of proof rests upon plaintiff.

"But even if all these parties had been informed of the lease and had examined it what would they have found? The clause above quoted, authorising, but not requiring, the lessee to retain possession until December 31, 1923 and the other clause disclosing that the instrument was merely provisional to 'the new, more detailed lease' which was never executed.

Again a finding is requested (6) that these 'officers and members of the Liberty Club, occupied, used and frequented the club's premises.

"As regards the officers, the nominal president testifies (p. 45) that he 'was there once on the premises.' Dr. Dunn says (p. 2) 'I think I was there on one or two occasions' and there is no contradiction of either. It is true that the club did occupy the premises in question for some two months following February 23, 1921 and if this were merely an action to recover rent during the period of occupancy, the claim of of ratification might be sound. But not only was plaintiff paid the full amount of rent for such period; it was given an additional month's rent after the occupancy ceased. What plaintiff is here asking is not recovery for actual use and occupation but for two years and eight months beyond that.

"The following finding is also requested (9): 'On or about May 23, 1921, one Shrake, a member the Liberty Club, represented to the Russian Economic Society that the Liberty Club, before unincorporated, was to be incorporated under the name of the American Athletic Club, and requested the Russian Economic Society to rewrite the lease formerly executed in favor of the Liberty Club, for the unexpired term of said lease, in the name of the American Athletic Club. This the Russian Economic Society did, believing the two clubs to be identical.

"It is perfectly true that plaintiff did enter into a new lease (Ex. F.) for the same premises with a concern styled the 'American Athletic Club' for a term commencing May 23, 1921. The amount of the rental was to be the same, but the provision for paying three months in advance was changed and the new lease required advance payment for only one month.

"But the other recitals in the requested finding are far from established. In the first place we find no competent evidence that 'one Shrake' was 'a member of the Liberty Club.' Plaintiff's president gives as a reason for so stating that 'he (Shrake) was in possession of the keys of the club.' (p. 78) He does not state when Shrake came into such possession but as the lessee's representative Shrake would naturally have the keys. Again plaintiff's president testifies:

Mr. Saveloff was sent to the president of the club to talk about the keys of the club because the club was shut up, but the president of the club said that the keys were in the possession of a member of the club, Mr. Shrake who had a right to represent the club in all affairs. (Trans. p. 78)

"This, of course, is mere hearsay. Had there been any such conversation with defendant's president, Mr. Saveloff himself would have been the one to relate it. But, although he testified immediately afterwards, he says nothing about such conversation though he does relate an alleged (pp. 97, 98) interview with the defendant's president. Again, a few days after the new lease plaintiff's president dictated and signed (pp. 84, 99) a letter addressed to 'M. F. Perkins, Esquire, Consul for the United States' which contained the following:

Mr. Shrake, an American Citizen came on May 29, 1921 to the office of the Board of the Society and stated that he is empowered by the American Athletic Club to negotiate about the continuation of rent of the same premises, as the 'Liberty Club' does not already exist, but many of its members will join the Athletic Club while the furniture of the first Club is being transferred to the new Club and remains in the same premises (Ex. 4)

"It will be seen that no claim is made in this letter that Shrake was a member of, or represented the Liberty Club. Indeed the writer of it recognises that the Liberty Club is already no-existent and that he was dealing entirely with 'the new club.' This is further emphasised by his testimony on cross-examination as follows:

Q—After you entered into the lease with the American Athletic Club you looked to Mr. Shrake for the payment of the rent, didn't you?

A—Yes, we applied to the American Consulate to get information about his address. Then we wrote a registered letter but did not receive any answer. (Trans. p. 83)

"It seems very clear, therefore, that plaintiff's president who conducted the negotiations on its behalf did not believe 'the two clubs to be identical' (that seems to have been an afterthought) but, on the contrary recognised that one of them had ceased to exist and that he was making not only a new lease but a new lessee.

"Again, the reason for the new lease as recited in the requested finding is not that shown by the record. The mere fact that Shrake might have stated to plaintiff that the old Club was to be incorporated would not have justified the execution of a new lease, at least until the incorporation had actually taken place. That it did not take place plaintiff's director was informed by Clerk of this Court (p. 99). But one of the reasons appears to have been the desire to waive the requirement of paying three months' rent in advance. Plaintiff's director testified as follows:

Q—Was this new lease to be a substitute for the old lease?

A—Only about payment. American Liberty Club must pay in advance three months but Mr. Shrake told me that for the Athletic Club it is very difficult to pay three months in advance and he asks Russian Economic Society now to make new agreement only for one month in advance.

Q And you were willing to let them have that privilege of paying only one month?

A—Yes.

Q—And that is why you entered into a new lease?

A—Yes. (Trans. p. 102)

"The truth seems to be that plaintiff was quite willing to relet the premises to any other tenant, regarding defendant as non-existent and unable to pay. Mr. Raines, a non-member and a disinterested party testifies to a conversation with plaintiff's president as follows:

Q—You told him that the club was disbanded?

A—I told him it could not possibly exist any more, that there was no hope for it and he even offered to rent me the place for myself. I told him the rental was too high, was sorry, it might be possible for me to take it and run it as a boarding house if he would put the rental down. He offered to let me have it for Tls. 250. I offered him Tls. 200.

Q—What did they say when you told them the club was going to disband?

A—First of all they came down to the Trocadero to see if I would not pay Tls. 250. I told them it was too high. The next thing I heard they let a fellow named Shrake take it. He was going to turn it into an athletic club. I told him I was not going to be responsible for anything more. (Trans. pp. 57, 58)

"It is not claimed that defendant was notified of this new lease or its consent obtained and the transaction was, therefore, covered by the following rule:

Where nothing is said as to the reletting, and the original lessee is not notified and does not consent, and there is no provision in the lease in regard thereto, the general rule is that the reletting shows an acceptance of the surrender. (4)

"Counsel further requests us to find (8) that plaintiff 'demanded the return of the keys from' defendant's officers and members.

But the Club refused to deliver them up. On or about August 10, 1921, the keys were returned to the Russian Economic Society by one Jack Raynes, a non-member of said Club.

"This again is contradicted by the testimony (pp. 83, 89, 100) of plaintiff's offices that the keys were returned on July 7. Plaintiff's president testifies (pp. 83) that they were returned by Shrake. He adheres to this on re-direct (p. 89) in spite of his counsel suggestion that he 'may have made a mistake.' As the new lessee's representative, Shrake seems to have been entitled to the keys and if he received them from defendant it was in effect a delivery to the plaintiff.

"The second plaintiff's claim for the price of furniture supplied to a member of the defendant club likewise rests upon no showing of authority from the other members. Said plaintiff's principle witness testifies (p. 90) that his estimates were sent to and his negotiations conducted with the same member who signed the instrument sued upon, and a letter from the plaintiff's secretary appears in the record stating 'that the only delivery receipts which we are able to trace were signed by' the same member. The first witness, however, testifies that he relied principally upon the member's assurance that 'the American Consul would be behind the Liberty Club.' It appears that the consul referred to was defendant's honorary president who presided at its one public meeting. But regardless of whether this plaintiff may have been justified in relying upon such assurance, clearly it did not involve nor include the other club members, none of whom appear to have known of ordering the furniture. Moreover, on March 22, long after the delivery of the furniture, the second plaintiff wrote to the same member asking him as a special favor to make payment at once. It is clear therefrom that said plaintiff was not looking to the club for payment. It may be added that the administration of said party's estate was pending in this court for a year and a half after the Liberty Club ceased to exist and either plaintiff might easily have filed its claim against said estate.

"In view of the foregoing it seems unnecessary to devote much space to the question of the right to sue a concern such as the defendant is alleged to be. But there was no such right at common law.

An unincorporated association cannot, in the absence of statute, be sued in its society or company name, but all the members must be made parties, since such bodies have, in the absence of statute, no legal entity distinct from that of their members. (5)

"Both of these actions, however, appear to have been brought under the following provision:

When two or more persons associated in any business, transact it under a common name, they may sue and be sued therein regardless of whether it includes their individual names, but the latter must be disclosed upon demand of the adverse party. (6)

"But it is not alleged that the defendant in these cases is composed of 'persons associated in any business.' On the contrary the complaint in the first case alleges, as we have seen, that defendant is composed of 'citizens . . . associated . . . for social ends and purposes' while that in the second case merely alleges 'that defendants are an unincorporated club' etc. (Par. 3). We have recently (7) held the provision last quoted insufficient to justify a suit by an organisation—a Chinese family—much more closely associated than defendant is alleged to be. The demurrer to the first complaint, which was not called up before the trial, would, therefore, have been sustained.

"Upon the whole we must find the evidence insufficient to support a judgment for either plaintiff upon the cause of action set forth in its complaint and it is accordingly considered and adjudged that each take nothing thereby.

By the Court,
Charles S. Lobingier
Judge."

HUANG FU, NEW DIPLOMATIC HEAD, ASSUMES OFFICE

Coltman Case To Be Up For Solution By Minister Of Foreign Affairs

(Special To The China Press)

Peking, February 9.—General Huang Fu, also known as Huang Ying-pai, assumed office as the new Minister of Foreign Affairs this morning. His nomination is expected to be accepted by Parliament without difficulty. Although not so well-known to the diplomatic world as men like Dr. C. T. Wang, Dr. Alfred Sze, Dr. W. W. Yen or Dr. Wellington Koo, his appointment is expected to be endorsed by Parliament, because the solons are opposed to all the diplomats who had already served in that office, because President Li and Premier Chang are both anxious to put him into office and because several important international problems are pending for his solution.

Two of the questions to be brought up upon his assumption of office will be the settlement of the Coltman case and the reflotation of the Banque Industrielle de Chine. Mr. Coltman was shot and later died of the wounds he thus received from a military guard at Kalgan for alleged exportation of gold out of Mongolia, which the Tartar General there had prohibited.

General Huang is a native of Chekiang Province. He was graduated from the Military Officers' School in Japan and on his return was appointed a member of the General Staff under the Manchu dynasty.

In the early years of the Republic, he held many prominent positions in the Government, as Chief Military Secretary to the Shanghai Tutuh, Chief Superintendent of Military Transportation Department, Chief Military Secretary to the Kiangsu Tutuh and General of the 23rd Division.

In 1913, on account of the strenuous work which was undertaken for the formation of a new government, he had to recuperate his health abroad and at the same time he availed himself of the opportunity to study the political conditions of the different countries. After his return to Tientsin, he devoted his whole attention to writing articles regarding what he had seen and learned during his sojourn in foreign countries. He wrote two books in Chinese called "Lessons from the European War and the Future of China" and "The World after the War." The acquaintance of the present premier with him was made through the exchange of knowledge, and before Huang was appointed as Chinese Advisor to the Washington Conference another book on "The Initiation of the Washington Conference and its Tendencies" had been written by him.

In 1921 he was sent to Europe and America to study financial conditions, and when the Washington Conference convened, he was appointed an Advisor. What he anticipated in his book on "The Initiation of the Washington Conference and its Tendencies" has been realised.

The government, after his return to China, appointed him as chairman of the Finance Commission for the purpose of reorganising the fiscal affairs of the country.

BY TOMMY GRAFTON

The American School five scored 36 spectacular shots in the game against the Stripes last night, finally winning by a score of 74 to 16. The game was played on the Rowing Club floor, and makes second place in the Foreign League a surety for the S.A.S. quintet.

The American boys started out for records, scoring 11 goals before the Stripes could get a shot, and at half-time, they were leading by a score of 38 to 8. The second half found Roy and Dud Squires and Shipley going strong, the Squires brothers being especially effective, scoring 30 points between them during the period.

Hick Shipley was in splendid form, tallying a great number of one-handed shots, and covering the floor in sensational style. Dud and Roy Squires also showed up well, the latter bringing his season's total to 80 baskets, seven ahead of Coulcher, of the Blues. The School team played together as a unit, and it was hard to pick an individual star.

Johnson was the leading scorer for the Stripes, who showed poor passing and shooting. Ross, who has been getting a big number of goals in recent games, was closely guarded and failed to cage a basket.

The summary follows:

American School		Stripes
Shipley	lf	Johnson
Dud Squires	rf	Ross
Roy Squires	c	Wilhelmi
Hager	lg	Krisel
Smith	rg	Johnston

Goals from floor: Shipley 9, Dud Squires 11, Roy Squires 14, Hager, Smith, Johnson 5, Wilhelmi, 2, Johnston. Goals from fouls: Roy Squires 2. Referee: Zee. Timekeeper: Parker. Scorer: Grafton.

Public School For Chinese Holds Annual Speech Day

The remarkable record made by students of the fifth and sixth forms of the Public School for Chinese at the Hongkong University Local Examinations when the entire classes passed, was the subject of favorable comment in an address given by the acting Headmaster, Mr. T. G. Baillie, yesterday afternoon. The occasion was the nineteenth annual speech day of the institution.

With Mr. Baillie on the platform were Dr. D. MacGillivray, Messrs. Chang Nieh-yun, C. P. Dawson, S. Sakuragi, R. G. Dowie and L. C. Healey.

The program was as follows:

School Song, "Omnes Juncti in Uno" ..... The School
Annual report by the acting headmaster
Address by Mr. Chang Nien-yun, member of the Chinese Educational Committee.
Recitation, "On Being Ten" .... Sieh Chi-tsai
Distribution of prizes gained in the Chinese Department
Nursery Rhymes.
(a) "Baa Baa Black Sheep."

Address by the Rev. Donald MacGillivray, D.D., LL.D., chairman of the Chinese Educational Committee.

Song, "Parting" ....The School

HEADMASTER SPEAKS

Mr. Baillie said: "Dr. MacGillivray, ladies and gentlemen. I do not propose to take up much time by giving you a detailed report, but I will confine myself to mentioning a few features of interest in the school year.

"The school is as popular as ever, for we have to turn away many applicants for admission at the commencement of each term. These, I may say, are recommended to go to the other municipal schools for Chinese.

"During the last summer vacation, classes in English were held at the school under Messrs. Lobb and Huang, and these proved to be very popular. The classes were a great help, for most of the new boys knew some English on admittance, and preference was given to such boys. In fact we now insist on applicants for admission being able to read simple words. The health of the pupils has been remarkably good, the average attendance for the year being 97.1 percent.

"For the benefit of those unacquainted with the work of this school, I may state that the school is divided into two departments, English and Chinese, with a separate staff of teachers for each. Each pupil on admission is examined and placed in one class for English and in another for Chinese, the two not necessarily being in the same grade.

"The total student body is divided into two sections, A and B. A boy in Section A studies English on Mondays, Wednesdays and Friday mornings, and Chinese on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Friday afternoons, while a boy in Section B studies Chinese on Mondays, Wednesdays and Friday mornings, and English on the other days of the week. Thus each pupil spends two and a half days per week in each department.

ALL PASS EXAMS

"The work of the school is now almost back to its pre-war standard, as is shown by the fact that we entered the whole of the Fifth and Sixth Forms for the Hongkong University Local Examinations in November, and all were successful. In the Junior Examination, five boys gained distinctions in various subjects—three in Arithmetic, one in Chinese, and one in English, Chemistry and Mathematics.

"While it is a very creditable individual performance to gain distinctions, from a general point of view the fact that there was not a single failure is of far greater importance, as it indicates the general high level of the work of the school.

"The Hongkong Local Examinations are becoming more and more popular, and in order to accommodate the candidates in the November Examination we had to have more than half of the seats in this hall temporarily removed.

"The school library, under Mr. K. S. Huang has been very popular, and he has given up a great deal of his private time to making it a success.

"The chemical laboratory, under Mr. J. Moffat, is now well equipped, and in future local examinations, a practical examination is to be compulsory for those taking chemistry, so we are in a very fortunate position.

"In the Chinese Department the work has gone on satisfactorily, and the results of the recent local examinations show an improvement in Chinese.

"It is with deep regret that I have to report the death of Mr. Koh Fang, our late chief teacher of Chinese, but Mr. Yu, who was promoted to the vacancy, carried on the work of his predecessor very successfully.

SHIELD IS WON

"As regards athletics, the school has had a very successful year. Although entering the Chairman's Shield Competition with a handicap of 14 points, lost in the football and tennis tournaments, we managed to win the shield by four points—a very creditable performance. Mr. Lobb was in charge of the meeting, which was held at the Hongkew Park, but all the staff helped in the training of the boys.

"During the Summer term a mural tablet, placed in the entrance hall in memory of Mr. S. Rayner was unveiled. Mr. Rayner, who fell in action near Cambrai in 1917, was a teacher in this school from 1908-1915, and was Headmaster-elect of the Polytechnic Public School for Chinese.

"Mr. I. D. Zia,, a former student of this school, who graduated in Medicine at the University of Hongkong last year, has been placed in charge of the Municipal Isolation Hospital for Chinese and it is very gratifying to see that the Council does all in its power to provide suitable positions for boys who have passed through the school.

"Mr. Kemp proceeded on long leave on July 15 and I took charge from that date. We hope to welcome him back for the commencement of the new term.

"In conclusion, I have to thank the staff, both Chinese and foreign, for the wholehearted support accorded me during my term of office, without which, no school could be successful."

CANADA SAILS ON MONDAY WITH MAIL FOR U. S.

Jefferson Due Monday From Seattle; Angkor Out This Afternoon

The next fast mail for America is to be dispatched on the Empress of Canada on Monday and will probably close at 12.30 and 1.30 p.m. for registered and ordinary matter. The Canada will arrive at Woosung from Hongkong at 10 o'clock Monday morning and is to leave at 6 p.m. The tender with outgoing passengers for Woosung will leave the Customs Jetty at 3:30 Monday afternoon, and incoming passengers from the steamer are expected to land about 12.30 o'clock.

Bringing a heavy mail and a full passenger list from America, the steamer President Jefferson of the Admiral Oriental Line is due here from Seattle and Japan ports on Monday morning and will dock at the China Merchants Central Wharf about 10 o'clock. The liner is to sail for Hongkong and Manila next Wednesday morning.

A mail for Europe will be sent on the Angkor today and is to close at 10 and 11 o'clock this morning for registered and ordinary matter. The tender with passengers for the Angkor will leave the French mail jetty at 1.30 o'clock this afternoon. After this boat, another French Mail, the Angers, will leave on Thursday, February 15.

The P. and O. liner Kashmir, bringing the next mail from Europe, is expected to leave Hongkong tomorrow at noon and is due in Shanghai next Wednesday. The Kashgar of the same line which sailed from Shanghai on December 23, arrived in London at 7 a.m. February 4, and the Haruna Maru of N. Y. K., from Shanghai on January 2, arrived at Marseilles on Wednesday morning.

Two passenger steamers will sail for European ports today. The City of York of the Ellerman and Bucknall, will leave at 9.30 a.m., and the last tender bringing passengers to the vessel will leave the Customs jetty at 8 o'clock this morning.

The N. Y. K. steamer Atsuta Maru is to leave early this morning.

Lack Of Shipping Tonnage Hinders

sumer of sesamum seeds her takings from China are small in comparison with what she purchases from India, and this has often been difficult to account. It is probably the fact that the French crushing mills are accustomed to crush the Indian variety. Small parcels are going forth to that country from here every month.

GERMANY MUST BUY

It is expected that Germany after the present trouble is settled will be a very large purchaser in the Shanghai market. Her requirements have not been satisfied and the brisk buying that we had witnessed in December and the early part of January for shipment to Germany has now practically come to a halt for the time being.

In the other sections of the produce market there is very little doing. Europe has been buying peanuts. Her operations on the Tsingtau market this week were on a large scale as prices are lower than obtain at Shanghai. Stocks of peanuts in Shanghai are about 1,000 tons, and the ruling price about Tls. 7 per picul, some 10 percent higher than Tsingtau. European buyers are offering £21.5 per ton.

American buyers are reserved, not making any bid for peanut oil, presumably because the value is higher than cottonseed oil. There is nothing doing for shipment to Europe, the English price being £2.5 per cwt.

The bean market is maintained, stocks here having accumulated and are estimated now at about a thousand tons. The market at Dairen is steady with small business passing. Shipments from Dairen are small at present. Bean oil is also quiet, England showing some interest and quoting £1.15, while the local price is about ten percent higher.

ANOTHER SILK RECORD

The silk cargo which was shipped on the Admiral Line steamer President Grant, sailing from Shanghai at 7 a.m. January 13, arrived in New York on February 1 at 11.30 p.m., the time in transit being 19 days and 17½ hours. The liner left Yokohama on January 19, making the delivery of silk from Yokohama to New York via Seattle in 13 days and 4 hours, breaking the record of silk shipments from that port to New York.

Kin-Han Strikers Resume; Trains Run

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Hankow, Feb. 8.—Half of the railway strikers returned to work this morning. The usual passenger service is running.

A strike leader was decapitated last night on the station platform. Shih Yang, a prominent agitator, has been arrested and it is understood that he will be executed.

Employes of the Yangtsze Engineering Works struck in sympathy with the railway strikers at noon today and the workmen of the Hanyang Iron Works are expected to be out tomorrow. Employes of the Canton-Hankow Railway have also gone on strike.

(China Press Service)

Hankow, Feb. 8.—A grim spectacle of a man's head fastened to a long bamboo pole was in evidence yesterday at Liuchiaiao. That was a device of General Hsiao Yao-nan, Tuchun of Hupeh, to warn the strikers on the Peking-Hankow Railway to resume their work.

Tuchun Hsiao despatched a detachment of troops to compel the strikers to return to work yesterday, but the latter were stubborn in their demand for the restoration of and compensation for the Kin-Han Railwaymen's Union, at Chengchow, Honan, which was dissolved by the military authorities, and for the dismissal of Mr. Chao Chi-yen, Managing Director of the line.

The troops bound up five "number one" workmen and threatened to kill them, if they did not ask the men to obey the order. This started an outery from the workmen and a clash between them and the troops followed. The soldiers fired on the strikers of whom 32 were killed and 12 seriously wounded. Over fifty men, including Lin Hsiang-chin, Chairman of the Labor Union, were arrested.

Lin was immediately beheaded by order of Tuchun Hsiao on a charge that he threatened an official with a revolver. His head was hung up "as a warning for the rest." The strike, however, continues.

It is reported that the strike was instigated by the Old Chiaotung Clique and that the authorities concerned have secured documentary evidence in this connection.

RAPALLO TREATY

Paris, Feb. 8.—A good impression has been made in Belgrade by a report, announcing the presentation of the convention for the execution of the Treaty of Rapallo for ratification to the Italian Parliament.

Diplomats Send New Note On Loans

(China Press Service)

Peking, Feb. 8.—With reference to the consolidation of China's foreign debts, it is reported that at a recent meeting, the Diplomatic Corps resolved to address a further note to the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, demanding that the Chinese Government give a formal pledge to appropriate the whole of the two and a half percent surtax, in the event of its being approved by the Special Tariff Commission which is slated to begin its sessions in March, towards the consolidation of the sinking fund for foreign loans.

Weather Report

Feb. 8.—The anticyclone is central over our regions and slightly moving eastward. The depression is passing by eastern Nippon N.E. ward. Regular winter monsoon all along the China coast. Cloudy but fine and cold weather in Northern and central China. Overcast in the South. Foggy at Haiphong.

Feb. 9.—The weather, very fine at night, became overcast and snowy at sunrise. Normal pressure. NEly breezes.

Overcast and variable weather because of a depression, probably forming over central China. Variable winds over our coasts and over the Eastern and Yellow Seas. Moderate monsoon in the South.

Vast Wealth Of Ruhr Basin

THE high value to France of the Ruhr Basin, and as a corollary, the great blow which German industrialism has sustained as a result of its seizure by the French, is no where so well set forth as in the secret report submitted to M. Poincare by M. Dariac. The latter investigated the resources of the region at the request of the French Premier. His report in some way or other was obtained by the Manchester Guardian and was published by that paper in November. "By seizing this basin," reported M. Dariac, "we can utterly demoralise German industry."

Here is one striking paargraph from the report: "In this field the Stinnes, the Thyssens, the Krupps, the Haniels, the Kloeckners, the Funkes, the Mannesmanns, and some three or four others play in Germany an economic role analogous to that of the Carnegies, the Rockefellers, the Harrimans, the Vanderbilts, and the Goulds in America; they also carry on a political activity unknown among the American billionaires. From the point of view of reparations they have already offered to substitute themselves for the German state for carrying out the payment of the Allied claims, or at all events the first ones, but on conditions which have been adjudged unacceptable."

In another place M. Dariac said: "It (the Ruhr Basin) constitutes the principal element of German wealth, which is based on coal and iron, their transformations and their derivatives."

"To give an idea," he goes on, "of the importance and the prosperity of this region we will simply recall a few figures:

"Of the 191 millions of tons of coal which Germany produced in 1913, 115 millions came from the Ruhr.

"Of this Germany distilled 50 to 55 million tons, of which 10 millions were destined for the production of illuminating gas and about 45 millions for the production of 32 million tons of metallurgical coke, of which 25 millions came from the Ruhr. The by-products of distillation, carefully collected, gave nearly 50,000 tons of sulphate of ammonia, 400,000 tons of tar, etc., a million tons coming from the Ruhr.

"This tar, distilled and redistilled, in turn produced the benzols, phenols, and all the multitude of by-products which supplied the monster dyestuff factories, the factories making the pharmaceutical products with which the Germans inundated the world, the factories for the synthetic perfumes which they mixed with the French products of natural origin, etc.

"Perfumes, medicaments, dyestuffs, tars and tar derivatives, ammonium sulphate, the foster-father of Germany's agriculture, metallurgical coke indispensable for her blast furnaces and for the French blast furnaces—all this is obtained only from coal. But after the loss of the Saar (18 million tons) and of the Polish section of Upper Silesia (28 million tons) practically all the production of German coal is concentrated in the Ruhr basin (115 million tons out of a theoretical total of 145 million tons, of which 20 millions have to be reserved for deliveries to the Allies).

"Similarly, from the metallurgical point of view, before the war the German production of cast-iron amounted to about 19 million tons, of which nine millions were produced by the Ruhr blast furnaces; the loss of Lorraine and Upper Silesia have reduced the possible production to 11 million tons.

"The steel production exceeded 19 million tons, of which 10 millions was produced in the Ruhr.

"We say nothing of the slag of dephosphorisation and of all the other less important by-products.

"As regards her general trade, Germany exported annually, out of a total of ten milliard gold marks, more than 700 millions' worth of coal, coke, and briquettes. Her exports of cast-iron were about a million tons. Her exports of steel (various steel products) were six to seven million tons, of which the money value amounted roughly to

"Steel products, nearly 1,900 million gold marks;
"Various machines, about 950 millions.

"The remainder of the exports was made up largely of dyestuffs, pharmaceutical products, perfumes, etc., derived from coal.

"The figures for the whole of the French production before the war are obviously unable to compare with the production of the Ruhr, the extent of which, however, does not equal that of a small French Department. We recall them below:

Coal, 40 million tons (reduced today to 25 millions).
Coke, 3,500,000 tons.
Tar, 300,000 to 400,000 tons.
Sulphate of ammonia, 50,000 tons.
Cast-iron, 5 to 6 million tons.
Steel, 4 to 5 million tons.

"It may suffice to set against these figures those of the production of a single one of the consortiums of the Ruhr, the Stinnes group:

Coal, 18,300,000 tons.
Coke, 4,565,000 tons.
Tar, 129,000 tons.
Sulphate of ammonia, 59,000 tons.
Steel, 2,600,000 tons.
Cast-iron, 2,119,200

"It is this industrial power alone which has made the greatness and the prosperity of Germany; from the agricultural point of view, before the war, and despite an intensive culture unrivaled in Europe, Germany bought abroad nearly three milliard gold marks' worth of foodstuffs of every sort (wheat, barley, rice, maize, coffee, fruits, wine, oils, cattle, etc.). This means in effect that Germany's food supply was only assured through the production of her industries (coal, dyestuffs, metals, chemical and textile industries, etc.).

"The large-scale industry, the heavy industry of the Ruhr, concentrated entirely in the hands of a few individuals, is thus called to play a decisive part in the events which will unfold themselves in Germany's future."

The latest cables and wireless reports indicate that France is gradually enforcing her seizure of all this wealth. At what cost to herself, to Germany and to the world remains to be seen. But M. Dariac certainly dangled a rich bait before the eyes of M. Poincare.

A Profitable Funeral

BY S. E. KISER

Henry Meeks died yesterday;
What you ask, is that to you?
Other men have passed away,
Death, you say, is nothing new.
I will grant you that, and yet
Henry's case deserves attention;
Linger for a moment; get
All the facts I have to mention.

Henry had a constant dread
Of disasters he foresaw;
"Trouble's coming sure," he said,
"People don't respect the law;
Honesty is out of style,
Decency has been forgotten;
Faith has dwindled; art is vile,
And society is rotten.

"See the women, how they dress,
All their modesty is lost;
Still they stumble, thinking less
Every season of the cost.
Home life lacks the charm it had,
Girls have cast off all restriction;
Things are going to the bad;
Put a pin in this prediction!

"Striking mobs and profiteers
Stir up trouble everywhere;
Nothing's sacred, it appears;
People navigate the air;
God deprived mankind of wings,
And He frowns on aviation;
Anarchy is coming; things
Soon will sink in desolation!

"Gaming, jazzing and divorce,
Lawlessness throughout the land;
We are on a downward course,
And the end is close at hand!"
Henry Meeks is dead; there's one
Reason less for being worried,
All his howling has been done;
By tomorrow he'll be buried.

The Chinese probably never will become adherents of Mr. Volstead but they'd probably vote for some kind of prohibition to keep money from getting tight around New Years.

We're still chuckling over the words that were passed back and forth at 'Tom Jones' last night. One poor little fellow was unfortunately placed directly behind one of our most rotund citizens. He fidgeted around several minutes and then finally reached over, tapped the reincarnation of avoirdupois on the shoulder, and said, rather nastily: "I say there, I can't see a thing."

"Too bad," sez the healthy brother, "just watch me then, and laugh when I do!"

THE GREAT RACE

Once, when the world was young and pink,
And the green grass tickled its toes,
And the stars hadn't yet learned how to wink,
Nor the sun how to follow its nose,
Out in the distance, back of a cloud,
A terrible quarrel brewed;
The Sun and the Moon were shouting aloud,
And they sounded exceedingly rude.

Mr. Sun called the Lady Moon names that weren't nice,
And said she was stupid and slow.
He said he could run 'round the universe twice
While she made up her mind if she'd go.
But the Moon said, "Look here, Sir, I'll run you a race
That'll show you I'm faster than you.
We'll start on this cloud—such a nice, fluffy place!—
And be back ere another day's through."

And so with great fussing and greater ado
The Sun and the Moon took their places.
And hundreds of stars—forty times quite a few—
Stood around and kept time with their faces.
They each counted seven, then twinkled aloud
As a signal the race should begin;
And the Sun and the Moon left the edge of the cloud,
Each one quite determined to win.

And they raced all the day and they raced all the night,
But you couldn't tell which was ahead:
In the daytime the Moon stayed behind out of sight,
And at night the old Sun went to bed.
And the stars, who were judges, were worried a heap,
And didn't know just what to do.
They thought if the Sun hadn't gone fast asleep,
He'd have beaten the Lady Moon through.

But the stars loved the Moon, for she sang through the night.
And allowed them to play with her hair;
While the Sun wouldn't let them appear in his sight—
Why, he'd put them right out in the air!
And the Moon let them romp and roll 'round in the sky
And have dances on thin beams of light.
But the Sun looked annoyed, and always asked, "Why?"
When he came at the end of the night.

And so when the world was young and pink,
And the Moon and the Sun ran their race,
The stars all concluded with one mighty wink
That theirs was a difficult case.
For by daytime the Sun surely seemed to have won.
Though by night the Moon seemed far ahead;
And though it is years since the race was begun,
Their courses are still being sped.

Don't Be A Repeater

BY DOROTHY DIX

There is one text in the Bible that every woman should have framed, and hung above her dressing table where she will see it every time she powders her nose. It's that one which tells us on Divine Authority that we are not heard for our much speaking.

Which means that saying the same thing over millions of times doesn't get us anywhere, or add one iota to the strength of our proposition, or make anyone a particle more willing to listen attentively to us.

Of course women will never believe this because they have got an unshakable faith in the multiplicity of words, and they firmly believe that the continual drip, drip, drip of the same advice, or the same reproach, will wear away the stoniest resistance.

This is far from being true. On the contrary, we will all listen once with an open mind to anybody's statement of a case, but when they thrust it upon us in season, and out of a season, we get our backs up, and get just as stubborn as any balky mule.

It is because mothers correct their children too much, and too often, that they never succeed in correcting their faults at all. You will often hear a woman say peevishly, "I don't know what I am going to do about Johnny's table manners. There isn't a meal that I don't tell him a dozen times not to eat with his knife." Or she will say, "Heaven knows how I will break Mary of sniffling! I am at her all day long about it."

That's the trouble. She has nagged her children about their bad habits until she has made them stubborn, or else they have heard the same criticism so often that it has ceased to make the least impression on them. Yet one real, quiet, heart-to-heart talk with Johnny, in which he was made to understand that gentlemen do not perform the sword swalling act at dinner, would have cured him forever. Nor would Mary have sniffled another sniffle if mother had taken her aside, and made her understand, once for all, that she was making herself an object of ridicule.

Some children once explained to me that their reason they never paid any attention to what their mother said to them was because she always said "don't" to everything they wanted to do, and was always after them about what they did, anyway, so they had figured it out that they might just as well do as they pleased. After all, maintaining one's authority over children is very much like maintaining discipline in an army. It is the crisp, short command that is obeyed. Not the eternal arguing and bickering. But mothers haven't found this out.

It is woman's inability to say a thing once, and be done with it that does more than anything else to alienate the affection of husbands from their wives, and destroy all confidence between them. The natural impulse of a young husband is to tell his bride everything, to relate to her the story of his life, to tell her of the mistakes he makes, because he craves her sympathy.

Most men start out this way, but few men ever repeat the mistake for they find that their wives harp upon any error they have committed and that they never hear the last of it. Wives are always holding postmortems upon the weakness to which their husbands have confessed. Let there be a shortage of money, and a wife will remind her husband of money he loaned a friend twenty years ago, and that was never repaid. Let him once in his youth have been drunk, and she will throw it in his teeth when he is so old he has only got false teeth. Women never forget, and never cease talking about their grievances.

It's repetition of the same old admonitions, the same old criticisms, the same old advice, the same suggestions, day after day, year after year, that makes family life get upon our nerves until there are times when we feel as if we would like to arise and choke those nearest to us. It is being told over, and over, and over again to put on your rubbers, to take a heavy coat, not to drink your coffee black, not to read in that light, not to sit up with your book, not to go out when it is raining, not to do this, not to do that, or to do this, and do that, that makes every child, at times, secretly a paracide in his heart, and every husband and wife have their moments in which they contemplate wife and husband desertion.

And it is our acquaintances who cannot say a thing once and have done with it who so often make friendship a burden instead of a joy. None of us object to hearing about our friend's children, their automobile, their business and their health once. In fact, we are keenly interested the first time, but when we have to hear every detail of their offspring's lives, and listen to the score of the miles they have made in their machine, and hear every gory incident of the operating room, every time we meet them we are bored to tears.

The moral of all this is that words are valuable in proportion to their rarity. The less we say, the more eagerly we are listened to, and the most valuable lesson that any of us can learn is to say a thing once, and then let it go at that.

Wife, Are You A Help Or Hindrance?

BY J. J. MUNDY

There is nothing more discouraging to a husband who is doing his best than to have a wife complaining that if he were the right kind of a man he might be making as much money as Mrs. So and So's husband.

Some men are money makers, and some are not.

There are men who can conduct a business and there are others who make better employes.

The employes who cannot aspire to a business of their own are unfortunate, and the family shares in the depressing realisation. but if a man is unsuited to be a successful business manager, which would bring him a better income, a nagging wife will not help the matter.

Nagging may put him to the bad to that he cannot hold even a good position.

If a man feels that he cannot conduct a business, he would better not put his savings into something he doubts from the start.

It is far better for a wife to assist such a man and encourage him in making as large savings as possible from his wages, rather than advise him to invest his money, his hard earned savings, in a business venture in which he feels he will be unsuccessful before he engages in it.

WHAT WOMAN NEEDS.
Above all things are Health and Happiness. These are the true Woman's Rights! Every woman is entitled to them. Dame Nature intended her daughters to be healthy in body and happy in mind. Any woman conscious of pain and trouble which she feels might be removed will be well advised to make careful enquiry as to the cause. If it is found—as indeed is frequently the case—that a disordered digestion is giving rise to ill-health and the consequent depression of spirits, medicine of the right sort will doubtless soon set matters right. But it must be of the right sort. Beecham's Pills are to be strongly recommended for woman's needs. They may be taken with perfect confidence for derangements of the digestive organs, including such unpleasant ailments as sick-headache, biliousness, flatulence, constipation and the lassitude and worries often incidental to her sex. Every woman may get nearer to Health and Happiness by using

FLAT WALL FINISH
A perfect Paint of smooth surface for Interior Wall Coating

The surface obtainable with this paint is smooth and flat, i.e., it is not a grainy, dead, lifeless finish, but of a velvety texture. It dries in a reasonably quick time, so that work can be carried out effectively, yet has the property of remaining open long enough to enable the worker to cover a large surface of wall without making laps or edges.
Excellent results with Super Durable Flat Finish are easily obtained, irrespective of the skill of the user, and an elaborate preparation of the surface is usually quite unnecessary.
Super Durable Flat Finish has been tried on non-absorbent surfaces of all kinds and where distemper and oil paint have proved prone to shell or flake off, it has always adhered. It gives a lasting finish of surprising beauty.

A Report On The Famine In Chekiang

BY MISS MARY LUMSDEN,
F. R. G. S., Member of the Royal Asiatic Society

During the summer months of last year typhoons of exceptional severity and frequency swept over Chekiang Province, but only those who are living within the zones of these typhoons can have realised the terrible havoc they made and consequently the great distress and poverty of the inhabitants.

I have been travelling for some weeks in Chekiang and I have seen part of the devastated country and have heard the story of the severity of the floods from several people in the district.

The rains come down with great rapidity and the rivers became very swollen and over-flowed their banks, sweeping everything before them, and in several valleys the whole of the rice crop was lost. At present the rivers are low and the land on each side is covered with sand and stones, which has completely buried the rice-fields. In many cases these fields will be irreclaimable.

The remains of villages which were destroyed by the floods can be seen, and, in the place of brick houses, one or two straw huts have been built. Roads and bridges have been destroyed and the work of the coolies is made harder as they have to walk in many places over shingle-beds or through deep soft sand.

In the hills the waters collected in the line of least resistance and tore down parts of the hill-side, carrying down stones and boulders which have covered the rice-fields, broken the retaining walls of the terraces and even destroyed well-made mountain roads.

Round Tientai the food is scarce and dear and many people have joined the robber-bands in the hills, so that travelling in that neighborhood is unsafe.

Fortunately the Famine Relief Committees in every district are working hard, and on each Committee there is at least one foreigner who is familiar with the district and the people; and a well organised system of investigation has been arranged.

As I traveled from Haimen to Taichow, our steam launch stopped to tow sixteen small boats carrying maize, and it is to be hoped that this first instalment will be followed by more. Up till now the people have had a little food and the weather has not been cold, but the need for relief is becoming urgent.

In order to prevent distress next year, it is also important that ground should be reclaimed as far as is possible and that roads and bridges should be repaired. The local Famine Relief Committees are ready to undertake this prevention and constructive work if the funds are only forthcoming.

The Family Album

BY BUGS BAER

Well, well, well, come right in and make yourself homely.

Pop is upstairs sharpening his chin on his razor. Here's the old family album right under the sink. This is a beautiful picture of Uncle Nat. Pop didn't like Nat much and always claimed that the "G" was silent. That used to make Uncle Nat very angry between chews of borrowed tobacco and he would holler that pop was born a bum and had a relapse.

Then pop would say, "Well, when you croak we'll bury you at sea so we won't have to print any lies on your tombstone."

When Uncle Nat was invited to speak at a dinner to Pop one evening, at the lodge, he got up and said, "I have attended many dinners to important men, but I enjoy this one just as much."

That made pop so mad he got blisters where his collar buttons sizzled in the hot fat. So when they asked him to chant the dedication at our Saturday night delicatessen frolic, he wouldn't demand a recommendation because Uncle Nat was flirting with all the girls.

Pop was no Beau Brummel. But then Uncle Nat wasn't The Sheik's Playmate, either.

Uncle Nat had a big mustache that made his nose look like it was bending over the handle-bars of a high bicycle. His Adam's apple ran up and down his neck like it was trying to escape and his ears looked like they were hoisted to each any favoring breeze.

Pop had little eyes that looked like a couple of currants looking for their jelly. His nose had an elbow in it and his face was so full of ingrown hairs he had to use his shaving soap on a tooth brush. If they ever entered a beauty contest it would explode on contact.

When you go to the movies now and see the pomp of Eastern pagodas, the glimmer of scimitars and the throbbing of Valentino's love for the Oriental Princess your heart jumps like a pogo stick. But when you looked at Pop and Uncle Gnat nothing jumped but the family cat.

I love the movies because it seems to me that when ships go down and men and women are struggling for desk room on a broken oar human hearts are seen at their worst. But Pop and Uncle Gnat didn't have any romance in them and their smiles meant that a pair of tens were being tortured by three aces.

They were awful gamblers and Justice of the Peace Van wouldn't let them work on his farm at all. Mr. Van said they were born gamblers.

He told mom, "You can't trust those fellows with money. They're terrible gamblers. You could put them in a field by themselves to pitch the hay. And by noon, those two fellows will trade jack-knives seven times."

That didn't look like such terrible gambling to me, because no matter how many times they traded jack-knives, they would each wind up with one knife apiece. Although Pop's didn't have any blades and Uncle Nat's didn't have any handle and between the two of 'em, you might get a jack-knife. But probably in your ribs.

Pop had a terrible temper and he and Uncle Nat would fight over the President's Message to Congress and even smaller trifles than that. Pop was a Republican right before anybody handed him two dollars. Uncle Nat was a Democrat and they used to go out and vote. So pop figured that Uncle Nat's vote neutralised his so that it was just like nobody voting at all.

So now that women have got a vote, pop says that a man will vote for Chauncey Depew. Naturally, his wife will vote the other way just to make her hair curly and cast her ballot for Bill Bryan. That's one vote each and nobody elected and along comes a Boy Scout walking from New Orleans to Buffalo to do his daily good deed and get back home to New Orleans in time for dinner. Pop says he don't know what the good dead is but it's probably throwing cracker crumbs to a sparrow with a broken feather. And the shrill chirping of joy from the sparrow will cause a cyclone of emotion that will sweep the country and elect some immigrant to the office when he has just been deported because he didn't have fifty dollars so we could tax it away for his income tax.

Well, goodbye, and if you ever get around our way again, we ain't responsible for hat and umbrellas.

Don't forget to write.

Coming! Coming!

What Roosevelt Believed

ROOSEVELT'S RELIGION. — By Christian F. Reisner. Illustrated. New York and Cincinnati: The Abingdon Press.

Dr. Reisner justifies himself for adding another to the many volumes of Rooseveltiana by the plea that none of the previous works about Theodore Roosevelt has touched upon the religious phase of his many-sided nature. He thinks that this factor in his character was of such dominating importance that it should have its exposition and its proof, and he has very capably made this tribute in a volume of nearly four hundred pages. It evidences a great deal of careful and painstaking work, although it adds little to what is already known of Roosevelt's life and character. Its value lies in the fact that the author has gathered together a vast quantity of material bearing solely upon his theme, from preceding volumes and other sources, and has put it together very skillfully to make a complete, well-rounded and outstanding presentation of the ethical and spiritual aspect of Roosevelt's nature and of his attitude toward religion.

For this purpose Dr. Reisner has examined all the books written by Mr. Roosevelt himself and the 400 or more that have been written about him and many articles about him and by him, and has conferred with his relatives and friends. By this latter means he has gained now and then some small incident or anecdote not heretofore published that gives freshness to his pages. His work is admirably comprehensive, covering the whole of Roosevelt's life and multiform activities. Beginning with his childhood, when, under the influence of a Christian home and devoted parents, he shows how the boy's nature was trained and developed to make him the man he became, the author follows him through life, in his own home and in his public activities, in his writings, his teachings and his ideals, and finds everywhere proof of his religious convictions and of their profound and constant influence upon his life. In a chapter entitled "Drinking and Prohibition," Dr. Reisner reviews quite fully the famous libel suit by which Roosevelt proved the falsity of the persistent rumors as to his drinking habits, and by means of many short extracts from various printed sources and of evidence from his friends establishes his habitual temperance, showing it to have been of a degree that was only a little less than total abstinence. The author quotes also from various authorities to reveal his attitude on prohibition, which is made evident in a letter wherein he gives his promise to "do everything I can to make it possible."

Two chapters deal with Roosevelt's life in connection with church membership and work and he quotes Theodore Roosevelt Jr. as telling him, "My father had great respect for and confidence in the Church. He was, however, little interested in mere dogma, but earnestly lent advocacy when the Church had an ethical point at issue."

Are You Looking For The Perfect Friend?

Sometimes you wish you might have one friend in whom you could find no fault, and because you do not know such a person, you do not try to make friends.

Acquaintances—yes, you have many, but you never go any farther with it.

And so you are missing one of the most beautiful things in life—real, true friendship.

But why should you expect any person is going to measure up to your standard of perfection?

You cannot find such a person, you are not even satisfied with yourself—you know that you are not perfect, so why look for perfection in others.

Instead of your critical analysis of everyone with whom you come in contact, why not warm up a little more and be friendly.

The friendly spirit you show is bound to attract other friendly spirits.

There is a give and take about friendship.

Every person needs at least one friendly soul with whom to be free and with whom to dare to be free and natural.

Are you really such to anyone else?

Children Cry for Fletcher's

CASTORIA

Fletcher's Castoria is particularly a preparation for Infants and Children made agreeable to the taste, acceptable to the stomach and pleasant in its action. It has been in use for over thirty years and has always been one of the most highly esteemed of all cathartic preparations. It has one great advantage over other preparations of its kind in that while it opens the organs readily and completely, it does not have a tendency to produce subsequent constipation so much to be dreaded.

It was only after years of research in the fields of herbs and roots for a combination of purely vegetable matter that would have all the virtues of Castor Oil, without its disagreeable, nauseating properties, especially when used for infants or children, that the formula used in Fletcher's Castoria was found, and which for over 30 years has proven its worth. Try it.

Save the Babies.

Infantry mortality is something frightful. We can hardly realise that of all the children born in ivilised countries, twenty-two per cent., or nearly one quarter die before they reach one year, thirty-seven per cent., or more than one-third, before they are five, and one half before they are fifteen! We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save many of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinct rer and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain mor or less opium or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity, they stupefy, retard circulation and lead to congestion, sickness, death. To avoid any possibility of giving your child opiates, or narcotics of any kind, keep Fletcher's Castoria in the house, and Save the Babies.

Cotton Reports

In their weekly report on the Shanghai Cotton market, Messrs. A. B. Rosenfeld and Son write as follows:

China Cotton.—The market during the past week has been keeping steady, the chief feature being settling of accounts owing to the proximity of Chinese New Year.

Our next circular will be issued on or about the 23rd instant, unless the situation warrants it, in which case we shall not fail to acquaint our friends with the general conditions of our market.

Yarn.—During the past week our market has been quiet and steady with little business transpiring. Prices ruling the same as compared with last week's level.

SPUNT'S REPORT

Messrs. J. Spunt and Company write as follows in the weekly report on the cotton market.

China Cotton:—Our market during the past week may be said to have been very quiet and notwithstanding the fact of hardly any inquiries evolving prices were in no way affected but ruled practically at the same level as during the previous period, and which is ascribable more to the near approach of the Chinese New Year holidays than any other cause. During the period under review, both Mid-Americans and Indians displayed firm and rising tendencies which, coupled with the low exchange rates now prevalent bring about a situation when importations of foreign cotton become almost prohibitive in the face of the continued stagnant yarn position. Having in view at this stage of the season the fairly diminished stocks of the local raw material and the expectant improvement in the demand for yarn after the Chinese New Year celebrations the natural deductions therefrom indicate in no unmistakable manner that while temporary reactions may take place no considerable retrogressions in the rates is likely to occur before any estimates may be formulated as to the size of the next season's crop, the planting of which will commence about four months hence.

Bearing in mind the foregoing, consumers will act wisely in exercising extreme vigilance in order to avail themselves of any depression in prices that may eventuate on the local staple and thus provide profitably as much as possible both for their current and future requirements. Tone of the market, Firm.

Spot bar silver was down ⅛d. and forward 1-16d. in London yesterday. The New York price declined to 63⅝ cents and the London-New York cross rate to 467¼. The only changes in our official quotations here today were a rise in the Yen rate to 68½ and in the Franc rate to 1150.

Our market opened firm but eased off during the course of the day. In the early part of the day business in Sterling was done at 3-0⅝ for near delivery, 3-0 7-16 February, 3-0¼ March and 3-0 3-16 April. Gold Dollars were done at 71¾ for near delivery, 71⅝ February and 71¼ for forward.

There were, however, good buyers at these rates and in the afternoon there were no sellers of Sterling better than 3-0⅝ near delivery, 3-0⅛ March, 3-0 1-16 April.

There were good buyers at ⅛d. above these rates. Sellers of Gold Dollars were offering 71½ for near delivery and 70⅞ for forward with buyers ⅛ point higher.

Banks were quoting 3-1½ and 73¼ for Sterling and Gold Dollar bills for delivery prior to China New Year and 3-1¼ and 72¾ for subsequent deliveries. There was practically no business doing in either London or New York silver markets yesterday.
